 1. Observations made in the Wuensdorf-Zossen (N 53/7 91) post prior to 11 October 1952 were indicative of a transfer of all or some of the Soviet offices there. [REDACTED] elements of the headquarters would probably be transferred in the near future. Construction work in Wuensdorf was no longer sped up after mid-September. Only the most necessary construction work was completed. Enlargement work at the railroad station was stopped. The Blue Express which originally was to have pulled out from Wuensdorf, now originates from another railroad station. At the end of September, the Russian women employed with a Soviet office gathered for a secret meeting which allegedly dealt with the subject of a large-scale transfer. [REDACTED] the headquarters will either be transferred to Frankfurt/Oder and/or Potsdam. Orders regarding the employment or discharge of German work personnel in Wuensdorf-Zossen were given by Lieutenant Colonel Vdovinn (fnu), in Leipzig, who probably is a field grade MVD officer. Lieutenant Colonel Toshchev (fnu) has allegedly been in Moscow for several weeks.²

 3. Security measures in the restricted area of Wuensdorf Zossen were intensified again after 29 September. Trucks driver by German drivers were taken over by Russians at the gates as German drivers were no longer permitted to enter the restricted area. [REDACTED] an order valid for all East Germany, according to which all Germans working in Soviet restricted areas were to be replaced by Russians. This order is being carried out only gradually, depending on the individual unit commander and the possibilities of suitable replacements.

 4. During the period from 13 to 16 October, quarters for 800 to 900 personnel of the tank repair shop in the Panzertruppenschule, and 400 troops of a motor transport unit with 70 motor vehicles were observed in the Lutz Kaserne on the east side of Highway No 96. About 65 trucks [REDACTED] of the transport unit left the installation toward Zossen at 10 a.m. on 13 October.⁴

5. On 11 October, only little vehicular traffic was observed going into or departing from the Stammlager Zossen on the east side of Highway No 96. Four 85-mm AA guns were still emplaced in the southern sector of the billeting area. Two huts with antennas had been constructed there. On 11 October, a VP member looked for a private room in Zossen. He was the driver of a government sedan that brought government officials to the Stammlager for meetings which most of the time lasted throughout the night. Motor vehicles seen in traffic from and to the northern sector of the Stammlager.
